

Jeanné Brown, Soprano

Since her professional debut with Robert Shaw, Jeanné Brown has touched the souls of her audiences with her “consistently exciting ... and radiantly beautiful” classical, operatic and spiritual performances on the concert stage. She has appeared as featured soloist with Symphony Orchestras and Opera Companies throughout the United States, Europe and Asia. Most recently Ms. Brown appeared in recital with Alan Morrison and Friends at Spivey Hall in Morrow, GA. Other recent performances include the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra as soloist for a Tribute to Marvin Hamlisch, Larry Blank, conductor and featured soloist with the Johns Creek (GA) Symphony, Wayne Baughman conductor. For the last two years, Ms. Brown has performed a series of concerts with Judy Boehm, pianist and Samuel Hagan, tenor in various venues around Georgia to rave reviews.

Career highlights include performing the role of Monica in The Medium with The Atlanta Opera, the national and international tour of Houston Grand Opera’s production of Porgy and Bess, leading roles in premiere performances of Zabette and The Opera Singer, and featured soloist with the Cape Cod Symphony, Royston Nash, conductor. Ms. Brown has studied at Wellesley College, Spelman College and Georgia State University. Continued studies include Berkshire Music Center at Tanglewood and the American Institute of Musical Studies in Graz, Austria.

In addition to her active performance schedule, Ms. Brown offers master classes and vocal music teaching and consultation. She is currently residing in Roswell, GA.